

So, congratulations! You have reached the end of this video series. At Video #7, at this point in time, you should have everything done, everything ready to upload to your website, and then of course, we will test it to ensure that your salesletter works!

Let's get started!

Okay, so there are two different ways to upload, as I said earlier – either via FTP program such as Filezilla or #2 through cPanel.

In order to connect to either or, you're going to need to get access from your web hosting company, the FTP information. The FTP, which normally it's FTP.yourdomain.com and then of course, the username and password. As far as accessing cPanel, it's normally yourdomain.com/cPanel.

With that in mind, first things first, I'm going to show you how to upload files via Filezilla. If you go to Google and you type in Filezilla, you will actually get the direct link, which is Filezilla-project.org. That's Filezilla-project.org. If you go to that site, you will land on this particular page. And then of course, you want to go click on Download Filezilla client and then you'll see that there's a Windows version and of course, there are other versions for different operating systems.

Just go ahead and download the one that relates to your operating system. Go ahead and install it and open it up. As you can see here, this is Filezilla. I already have it opened up. The host, as I said is normally going to be FTP.yourdomain.com, .net, whatever that is. And then you enter your username, your password, you click Quick Connect, and you're good to go. Typically, at that point, you are going to want to find the folder that says Public_HTML or sometimes, it will be HTTPDOCS D O C S or HTTPDOCS, sometimes, you'll see that there. Your web hosting company should be pretty upfront with you as to where you should be able to find that, kind of thing.

So, just go to that folder, and then of course, you could either upload the files straight away, straight under that folder or you can create a folder underneath, which to do that, all you have to do is go here. And then of course, in this box down here, you right-click, you click on Create Directory, and then of course, you create the directory. And then of course, you locate the directory and you go inside of it. As you can see, I kind of took a head start and went ahead and uploaded these two files because they were about 220 megabytes each.

So, now what I need to is just go back over to here. I've already uploaded these three files but, just the same thing, all you have to do is open up over here, your File Manager on your computer, and then when you're ready to drag-and-drop it down here, you just drag, drop and that's it. We have successfully uploaded it there and now all we need to do is simply go back to our browser here. We want to go to that link. As you could see, I'm using my Internet browser and I'm live. If I scroll down, I can see that the Buy button is here. And there we go! We have successfully uploaded it and we are good to go.

Now, I'm going to show you how to access and upload files via cPanel, which is a different route, if you want to go that route. What you need to do is simply go to `yourdomain.com/cPanel` as you can see here. Of course, `yourdomain.com` can be `.net`, `.org` – whatever your domain is, just put `/cPanel` at the end. Typically, the username and password is the same as the FTP username and password. But when in doubt, please contact your web hosting company.

For the sake of showing you this, what I did is I went ahead and deleted the `index.html` file and the Thank You page and I'm going to go ahead and upload it in. What I need to do is simply click on Upload here. And then, what we need to do is do the same things – we find the index file, which is the sales page and the Thank You page. The nice thing about the upgraded version of cPanel is you can simply drag-and-drop the files right here. You can see we've uploaded the files and we're back here. And we're done! So, that's how easy it is to upload everything. It's done. We're ready to go and we've tested everything.

By testing it, all you have to do is simply go again to this particular address. So, we're going to go up here. We can see the sales page and I'm going to do the same thing with the Thank You page and make sure the Thank You page works live. And it does.

If I click on these links, it should download the files. As you can see down here, they are downloading. This one's 133 megabytes and this one is 85 so, they're both downloading successfully. That means our download page works perfectly and our sales page works perfectly as well.

Congratulations! You've reached the end of this video course. That's how easy it is to create and set up your PLR videos or your Resell Rights videos or your eBooks!
